GOZO REAL ESTATE

Description

New on the market, this unique farmhouse has been finished by the present owners to a very high specification. Attention to detail is evident throughout this property. Solid wooden beams and original traditional stone features/walls throughout plus double glazing and new air-conditioning units.

Staircase and internal doors are solid wood; internal doors are of 'ledge and brace' rustic design with cast iron fittings which make this farmhouse feel like a cosy, country residence.

Luxurious under-floor heating has been installed and heated by an air source Hitachi heat pump which heats the floor and towel warmers in the bathrooms during the winter months. Black-out blinds have also been installed for privacy and to keep the house cooler during the summer months. This freehold property is full of natural light and is south facing.
