A rare opportunity to renovate a large house which is believed to have been used as a hunting lodge by the Knights of Malta. Spacious interiors and high ceilings certainly give the impression of a palazzo rather than a farmhouse, although this would have become a farm in later years, as the mangers and pigeon turret clearly indicate.

Structurally sound, but in need of full renovation, this exceptional property could be transformed into a four/ five bedroom house with plenty of room for a swimming pool and a summer kitchen in the rooms
