Description

€395,000

This lovely farmhouse, dating back hundreds of years lies at the heart of the old town of Rabat (Victoria) with its network of alleyways. It is abundant with old world character and is the perfect place for someone who wishes to be centrally located as everything, from shops to bars and restaurants are within a short walk.

The property has several entrances from different alleys. On the ground floor there are two spacious interconnected rooms one being used as the living room, the other a kitchen and dining room. The architecture of the arches is fascinating as they interlock a massive central arch from both rooms. In the dining room there is also an internal well which is always full of fresh water, interlinked with other wells in the old quarter, which are likely spring fed.

Although an old property the kitchen is light courtesy of a large skylight.
